

I am strongly opposed to further relaxing the current media ownership rules. National media outlets already present an extremely narrow and uniform picture of major events. Any further consolidation potentially would be even more destructive to diversity of opinion.